This page contains regular text content with embedded text layer.
It demonstrates a proper text layer in the document.

Born-digital content like this doesn't require OCR.
Page 2 will contain scanned/image content that requires OCR.
This hybrid approach is common in document management.

The text on this page is fully extractable and searchable.

This page is rendered as image pixels.

No text layer exists - OCR is required.

This hybrid approach is common for documents that mix born-digital and scanned pages.
